("SACKED cops, drunken geologists, underworld figures and pirates - it's amazing who pops up in the business deals of mining prospector Mihran Shemesian.

The man is better known to Full Disclosure readers as "Mick Manynames" because there are more than a dozen different spellings of his name on official documents.

His latest deal just might attract the attention of the Takeovers Panel, as companies that Shemesian controls seem to own more than 20 per cent of listed Greenland Minerals and Energy - beyond the threshold that would require a takeover bid."

“The major shareholder in GGG is GCM Nominees, which is controlled by Shemesian. It has 35 million shares, or 15.7 per cent, of the stock.”)
